TWENTY - SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES ATTACHED TO BELLEVUE HOSPITAL.

IN presenting their Twenty-Second Annual Report to the public, the managers feel that there are two classes of people who will read it with peculiar interest. First, their graduates, who will be glad once a year to receive tidings of their Alma Mater ; and second, those who wishing to fit themselves for the profession of nursing, have very little idea of the requirements of a hospital.

If our graduates who are so far away that they have not visited Bellevue for ten years could walk through the wards now, they would be surprised and pleased with the increased facilities for medical and surgical work, and for the comfort of the patients. Many of the nurses' rooms adjoining the wards have been fitted up by the attending physicians with every modern appliance, while each ward has wire-woven mattresses and bed tables, and the closets are kept well supplied with comfortable clothing. At this holiday season, the beautiful Christmas trees, and the tables for the convalescent patients attractively spread, speak of many kind hearts that have given out of their abundance to brighten the lives of those who have never known much sunshine.

With order, cleanliness, medical skill, and good nursing, this venerable Mother of all the Hospitals makes a record of recoveries fully equal to that of the new and beautifully appointed hospitals that have sprung up all over the city.

For those desiring to fit themselves for the profession of nursing, we wish to say that the training at Bellevue is severe, and the standard of requisition by physicians and surgeons is raised year by year. The service demands a sound mind in a sound body. No one should engage in it who has chronic weakness of any kind, for if, in consequence of such weakness, a nurse is obliged to give up her work for two or three months, her place must be filled, or the strain is too heavy upon the other nurses who are called upon to perform her duties.

The work requires intelligence, good temper, trustworthiness, and a cheerful disposition.

The present graduating class is smaller than usual, as there was a great deal of alarm felt two years ago at a number of cases of typhus fever that developed in Bellevue Hospital. Candidates for admission hesitated to pledge themselves for two years' service at a time when such an epidemic might prevail, though the nurses already in the school showed no fears.

On the 1st of October last, at the earnest request of the Commissioners of Charities, we again took charge of the Female Insane Pavilion. This necessitated increasing the number of nurses to 66, and hiring four bedrooms outside of the Home. It has also added grave responsibilities to the Superintendent and nurses.

During the twenty-two years of the school's existence, 464 nurses have graduated. Of these, 58 are engaged in hospital work, as superintendents, matrons, and head nurses; 9 are district nurses among the poor; 87 have married, and 24 have died.

The number of applicants for the year 1894 were 1739. Calls for private nurses, 700; for hospital positions 12, of which the school filled 7.

The course of instruction consists of classes once a week by the Superintendent and her assistants on Anatomy, Physiology, Materia Medica, Symptoms of Disease, and Obstetrics, nursing from text-books, and practical instruction in the wards.

Lectures during the year have been given by :

Dr. HERMAN BIGGS, on Hygiene and Physiology,
 Dr. ROBERT CARLISLE, Diseases and Symptoms,
 Dr. JASPER GARMONY, Anatomy and Surgery,
 Dr. ROBERT WYLIE, on Obstetrics,
 Miss GRAY, Massage and Electricity.

Also lessons once a week in Cooking for the Sick.

During the past year several of the older graduates took a post-graduate course, to acquaint themselves with the new methods of treatment in surgery and medicine. The Managers were glad to have them do this, as only in such a way can they keep up with the requirements of the present day.

With heartfelt sorrow we record the death last summer of our treasurer, Mr. George Montague, who during all the years he was President of the Second National Bank was our trusted friend and counsellor, always ready to pause in his arduous labors to advise with us as to the best interests of the school.

Only two months before Mr. Montague's death, we heard of the death of Miss Eliza Perkins, who assumed the charge of the Training School for Nurses at an age when most women desire to be relieved from responsibilities. Both Managers and graduates will bear witness to the rare fidelity with which Miss Perkins filled the position of Superintendent for twelve years, only resigning it when the infirmities of age warned her that she must have repose.

The circumstances attending the deaths of Mr. Montague and Miss Perkins were almost identical. From apparently unimpaired health, without consciousness of pain or parting, each passed into the life eternal. They were alike in their integrity, their activity, and their earnestness of purpose. It is impossible to think of such spirits "anywhere in God's universe as inactive, timid, or not intent on noble ends by worthy means." We are left in no doubt as to the destiny of those in whose lives fidelity to duty has been paramount. The Master himself has said: "Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things."

"Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

Again the Mary De Witt Cuyler fund has been drawn upon to supply nurses for several of our graduates who have occupied the Lazarus Pavilion during the year, coming there to have operations performed, which could not so well have been done or so skilfully cared for in any private house.

The Edith Home was opened from the 1st of July to the last week of September, and was well filled with nurses, who expressed themselves as grateful for this delightful place, where the breezes were cool, even during our exceptionally hot summer—where they were so well cared for by Miss Newlin, the Matron. "They felt that the rest did them good, and they gained strength there which enabled them to return to their work with renewed zeal.

The Managers wish to acknowledge the kind co-operation of the Warden, Mr. O'Rourke, with their work, and the uniform kindness and consideration of the Commissioners of Charities. Also the Managers desire to express their great indebtedness to the members of the Medical Board and the House Staff.

VIRGINIA R. OSBORN,
Secretary.

MEMORIAL MEETING, MARCH 9, 1894.

SINCE our last meeting Mr. Osborn has "entered into rest." Ever since the first foundation of the Training School Mr. Osborn has been to it a most generous friend ; not only did he give to it money, but he was ever ready to help the Board of Managers with his wise counsel and sound judgment.

The school was established when he was in active business, but he always found time to do for us what we asked him to do. Mr. Osborn took a personal interest in the nurses, and many of them cherish pleasant memories of his hospitality and kindness. During the last three years of his invalidism his interest in the school still continued, and he liked to hear of the good work the school was doing. It seems right that we should pay a tribute to the memory of this generous benefactor and friend. "The law of truth was in his mouth" ; "he loved mercy, he did justly, and walked humbly with his God."

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS.

BY DR. STEPHEN SMITH.

WHOEVER is called to address a graduating class is very naturally led, first, to dwell on the dignity and exalted character of the profession which the students are about to enter ; and, second, to point out the methods of achieving success. The addresses delivered at the graduation exercises of this school during the score of years of its existence, are, I notice, no exception to this custom. The profession of nursing has been extolled in prose and verse, and the graduates have been instructed in the ethics of their calling, and in all the subtle arts which are essential to advancement. I do not see that I can gather even a useful suggestion in this well-gleaned field, and shall, therefore, turn to a subject more congenial to me, and which, I trust, will prove useful if not entertaining to you.

This occasion is to me reminiscent. When I received the invitation to address you, I naturally recalled the origin of the school, traced its development, and forecast its future. As large numbers of the graduates of this school have been and will continue to be called to do pioneer work in establishing other schools, it will be profitable, after upwards of twenty years' experience, to revert to the labors of those who under many difficulties and trials laid the foundations of this school, and with so much prudence and forethought reared the superstructure. As it often happens that the old mansion of the town long gives valuable hints to the architects of modern houses, so the foundations and the framework of this school will long be the best model for you to refer to when establishing a similar institution.

The Society of the New York Training School for Nurses had its origin in an effort to reform the nursing in Bellevue Hospital. During the year 1872, sixty ladies, members of the State Charities Aid Association, visited the wards of the Hospital weekly, and "sat by the bed-side of every patient to soothe, comfort, and relieve," and thus they learned that the nurses were "inadequate in number to the work, nearly all illiterate, some immoral, and others intemperate," and that they "constantly neutralized the efforts of the physicians by their ignorance and their indifference to the welfare of the patients." In vain these ladies introduced other reforms into the management of the Hospital. They became "convinced that no further changes could be of any advantage until the system of nursing should be entirely reformed." The monthly reports of these ladies teemed with tales of suffering which might have been alleviated by kindly, intelligent women, and as the year wore on they began to seek for a remedy.

They found in the Institution for the "Training, Sustenance, and Protection of Nurses and Hospital Attendants," established at St. Thomas Hospital, London, the groundwork of this school. The London institution originated in a suggestion of Florence Nightingale, and developed under her care and supervision. To her the ladies appealed for advice. In communicating her views, Miss Nightingale laid down with great precision the correct principles which should govern the origination of the school. Two of these principles are worthy of special notice, for the glory and excellence of this school has hitherto and must continue to depend upon their rigid enforcement. Briefly summarized, her opinions were as follows :

1. Nurses are not medical men, nor medical women ; avoid the confusion, both practically and theoretically, of letting women suppose that nursing duties and medical duties run into or overlap each other ; the whole organization of discipline to which the nurses must be subjected, is for the sole purpose of enabling them to carry out, intelligently and faithfully, such orders and such duties as constitute the whole practice of nursing ; their duties can never clash with medical duties.

2. And in order that nurses may be competent to execute medical directions—to be nurses and not doctors—they must, for discipline and internal management, be entirely under a trained woman superintendent ; all desired changes, reprimands, etc., in the nursing and for the nurses, should be referred by the medical officers to the superintendent.

When the ladies submitted their scheme to a committee of the Medical Board, of which I was a junior member, these two propositions were received by the elder members with great disfavor. They regarded it as impossible to so train a nurse that she would not usurp the duties of a physician. But a long residence as an interne of a Hospital of the Sisters of Charity, enabled me to discredit this objection. But I fully concurred in the opinion of the other members of the committee that the nursing should not be disciplined by the woman superintendent alone. However, I have had many opportunities since of verifying the truth of Miss Nightingale's statement "that rules which make the matron and nurses responsible to the medical officers, except in carrying out current medical orders, are always found fatal to nursing discipline." I would now accept as a cardinal principle her conclusion that "all discipline must be under the matron, otherwise nursing is impossible." Though the committee reported favorably on the scheme of the ladies, it had a large measure of skepticism in reserve.

The school was fortunate in having as its first Superintendent a trained nurse from the London Institute. Sister Helen was eminently fitted to do the pioneer work of planting the first training-school for nurses in this country in the unpropitious soil of Bellevue Hospital. She was not only thoroughly familiar with all the details of her profession, but she had the determination and patient endurance necessary to overcome the innumerable obstacles to success which constantly confronted her. As the school was never a part of the Hospital organization, the Commissioners granted privileges, not of right, but as favors. Some members of the Medical Staff constantly asserted their prerogative of disciplining the nurses, and held them to a most rigorous performance of their duties. Finally, the old nurses improved every occasion to treat the pupils of the school with contempt, and often with coarse, vulgar rudeness.

All of these difficulties were met by the Superintendent and the officers of the Association with admirable temper and judgment. No impatience was ever shown, nor harsh criticism ever heard. Silently but perceptibly the nurses soon began to grow in favor with the visiting and resident medical officers. The immediate improvement in all the details of management of the few wards allowed the school attracted the attention of every official, and soon began to excite the envy of those physicians whose wards were under the old regime. While the general tidiness, good order, and cleanliness excited common remark, the medical men were far more surprised at the vast change which had occurred in the immediate care of the patients. For the first time in a quarter of a century, the pauper sick of Bellevue Hospital were brought under the constant observation of trained minds and the care of skilled hands. The various signs and symptoms of disease were accurately registered, and medicines were given with precision. In an incredibly short time the "Trained Nurse" had gained the vantage-ground which would enable her to make the conquest of the continent.

You may not be called upon to contend with all the difficulties which beset the paths of the pioneers of this school, in your efforts to accomplish a similar undertaking, but you will always find the task one requiring a large measure of patience with medical and surgical officers, and discretion in your official relations with hospital managers, but by uncompromising perseverance you need not despair of final success whatever trials you may encounter, for the trained nurse is to win her way to the conquest of the world. We cannot doubt this if we note the small beginnings of the school, and consider the vast changes which have been effected chiefly through its influence in a score of years. But five pupils applied for admission during the first session, but since that time there have been upwards of eighteen hundred applicants in a single year. In 1875 six pupils graduated from this school, now its graduates number 450. It is most credible to the character of these graduates that sixty have been chosen to positions of superintendents or head nurses in hospitals.

And it seems to be an admitted fact that the trained nurse excels in every other field which she enters. She becomes the best matron, the best governess, the best companion, the best wife and mother, the best missionary. It is said that the great Chinese Viceroy recently stated that of all the foreign forces that might be employed to conquer China, the only one likely to succeed was the trained nurse as a missionary.

The present position of this School is par excellence in the front rank of the training schools in this country. In many respects it excels the best of its own offspring. While the graduates of no other school are better equipped in technical education, few, if any, are so thoroughly and uniformly trained in what may be called the moral and social ethics of their profession. The graduates of this school, in my experience seldom, if ever, create other than the most grateful and tender sentiments of esteem and affection in the families with which they have been professionally associated. The excellence of this School in these and many other important features is due to the firmness with which the late Miss E. P. Perkins, the former Superintendent, and in these latter days, Miss Agnes S. Brennan, the present Superintendent, have adhered to the fundamental principles laid down by Miss Nightingale.

As already stated, the importance of these principles cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of those graduates who will be called to be superintendents of other schools. There is a popular fallacy in the medical profession that a training school for nurses consists only in giving the students a few lessons in anatomy, medicine, and surgery; some instructions in administering medicines and in the use of the clinical thermometer, and the course is complete. It follows that large numbers of incompetent nurses are constantly graduating from the small hospitals of the country, who necessarily tend to bring the profession of nursing into disfavor. They are to your profession what the half-educated physician is to the medical profession, "quacks."

This review of the early history and present position of the New York Training School for Nurses suggests the further inquiry: What is to be the future of the parent school? It has largely fulfilled the mission for which it was organized, viz., to benefit not only Bellevue, but all the public hospitals; to train nurses for the sick in private houses and for work among the poor; to establish a college for the training of nurses; to establish branches in connection with hospitals devoted to particular diseases; to create a Home for nurses. Wherein it has failed, the fault lies with those who should enlarge its capacity and resources. It stands to-day among the great institutions of New York, of mature age, and the peer of those entitled to the full measure of public confidence. It is completely equipped to do a larger and better work in the future, than in the past. But it is hampered by restricted opportunities for hospital work, and insufficient home accommodations. The entire service of nursing in Bellevue Hospital should be under the sole management of the Superintendent of the Training School, and the entire force of nurses should be drawn from that institution. For that service ample and unstinted remuneration should be made. The Training School has saved to the city thousands of dollars by economy in the management of the wards of Bellevue, and hundreds of lives by efficiency in nursing. By now placing the entire nursing service under the care and control of the Training School, with suitable compensation, the Commissioners would raise the standard of nursing throughout the Hospital to the highest degree of economy and efficiency, and supply the school with greatly needed facilities for instruction of its pupils.

It cannot be doubted that should these advantages for enlarging its work be given the school, its friends would supply the means for the increase of accommodation of its Home.

Standing to-night upon the ground where this school had its origin, its founders must experience intense satisfaction as they recall the wonderful revolution in the art of nursing the sick which has been wrought in this country by their efforts. This school may justly claim to be the Alma Mater of most of the training schools in the United States, now nearly as numerous as are the well-organized hospitals. Their greatest care now and henceforth should be to broaden and strengthen its foundations, laid with so much care ; and to maintain unimpaired its unsullied reputation. And it should be a grateful service of its graduates to go forth imbued with the spirit and principles which make nursing an honorable profession, as missionaries to found other similar centres of instruction, and everywhere to counteract the already wide-extended evils of imperfect training in the science and art of nursing.

REGULATIONS FOR TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES.

The Committee of the Training School for Nurses has made arrangements with the authorities of Bellevue Hospital for giving two years' training to women desirous of becoming professional nurses.

Those wishing to obtain this course of instruction must themselves apply to the Superintendent of the Training School, 426 East 26th Street, New York, either in person or by letter, upon whose approval they will be received into the school for one month on probation. The preferable age for candidates is from twenty-five to thirty-five years. The applicant should send, with answers to the paper of questions, a letter from a clergyman testifying to her good moral character, and from a physician stating that she is in sound health. Applicants are received at any time during the year when there is a vacancy. A good education is indispensable for a member of the school, but applicants are reminded that women of superior education and cultivation, when equally qualified as nurses, will be preferred to those who do not possess these advantages.

The Superintendent has full power to decide as to their fitness for the work, and the propriety of retaining or dismissing them. She can also, with the approval of the Committee, discharge them at any time in case of misconduct or inefficiency. During the month of probation the pupils are boarded and lodged at the expense of the school, but receive no other compensation. They are not expected to wear the uniform of the school, but must come provided with dresses of washing material, for use in the Hospital. All clothing must be plainly marked.

After the trial month those who prove satisfactory will be accepted as pupil nurses, after signing an agreement to remain two years in the Training School for Nurses, and to obey the rules of the school and Hospital.

If a nurse, for reasons of her own, leaves the school before the two years have expired, she is expected to refund to the school the money she has cost it.

They will reside in the Home, and serve for the first year as assistants in the wards of Bellevue Hospital ; the second year they will be expected to perform any duty assigned them by the Superintendent, either to act as nurses in the Hospital, or to be sent to private cases among the rich or poor.

The pay for the first year is $7.00 a month, for the second year, $12.00 a month. This sum is allowed for the dress, text-books, and other expenses of the nurse, in connection with her work, and is in no wise intended as wages, it being considered that the education given is a full equivalent for their services. They are required, after the month of probation, when on duty, to wear the dress prescribed by the Institution, which is of blue and white seersucker, simply made, white apron and cap, linen collar and cuffs.

The day nurses are on duty from 8 A.M. to 8 P.M., with an hour off for dinner and additional time for exercise and rest. They are also often given an afternoon during the week, and have a right to the half of Sunday. A vacation is allowed.

As the Institution is unsectarian, there are no religious services connected with it, except evening prayers, and all nurses are expected to attend the place of worship they prefer once on Sunday.

COURSE OF TRAINING.

The instruction includes :

1. The dressing of blisters, burns, sores, and wounds ; the application of fomentations, poultices, cups, and leeches.
2. The administration of enemata, and use of catheter.
3. The management of appliances for uterine complaints.
4. The best method of friction to the body and extremities.
5. The management of helpless patients ; making beds ; moving, changing, giving bath in bed ; and preventing and dressing bed-sores.

6. The practical care of the insane.
7. Bandaging, making bandages and rollers, lining of splints.
8. The preparing, cooking, and serving of delicacies for the sick.

They will also be given instruction in the best practical methods of supplying fresh air, warming and ventilating sick-rooms in a proper manner ; and are taught to take care of rooms and wards ; to keep all utensils perfectly clean and disinfected ; to make accurate observations and reports to the physicians of the state of the secretions, expectoration, pulse, skin, appetite, temperature of the body, intelligence—as delirium or stupor,—breathing, sleep, condition of wounds, eruptions, formation of matter, effect of diet, or of stimulants, or of medicines ; and to learn the management of convalescents.

The teaching will be given by visiting and resident physicians and surgeons at the bedsides of the patients, and by the Superintendent, Assistant-Superintendent, and head nurses. Lectures, recitations, and demonstrations will take place from time to time, and examinations at stated periods.

When the full term of two years is ended, the nurses thus trained can choose their own field of labor, whether in hospitals, in private families, or in district nursing among the poor. On leaving the school they will, after passing the final examination, each receive a diploma signed by the Examining Board and by a Committee of the Board of Managers.

The Managers of the School wish it to be distinctly understood that they do not guarantee to take all who graduate on the Registry.

BELLEVUE REGISTRY FOR NURSES.

The Managers of the Training School have established a Registry for their graduates, where medical, surgical, and obstetrical nurses, and those competent to take charge of nervous and insane patients, can be obtained by applying either in person, by letter, or telegram, to the office of the Society, 426 East 26th Street.

The terms for the registered nurses are, for obstetrical, nervous, surgical (major), contagious, and men, $25 per week. Insane, $30.

Infectious and contagious cases include: Scarlet Fever, Measles, Typhoid Fever, Diphtheria, Erysipelas, Septicæmia and Puerperal Fever.

If at a contagious case for less than a week, $4.00 per day; $21.00 per week, or, $3.00 per day for all ordinary cases, including minor surgery.

No extra charge is to be made for attending to the body after death. If called in expressly for this duty, $5.00.

A list of these nurses will be found on page 49.

1. The fee is $10 a year, due after January 1st.
2. Nurses are to keep the Superintendent informed of their place of residence, and when they are ready for a call, and also when they have accepted a case, either obtained from the office or from any other source.
3. Nurses, while in attendance in the sick-room, are to wear the uniforms, consisting of a cap, apron, and dress of washing material, unless the patient or family object, or the circumstances of the case render such a dress inappropriate.
4. Nurses are to report to the office when, from sickness or any other cause, they are obliged to leave a patient who still needs the services of a nurse, so that their place can be supplied as soon as possible.

5. It is the duty of a nurse to take the care of the patient's room, if her time is not fully occupied by the patient ; and also to make herself acceptable to the family.

6. Before making an engagement a nurse should mention her terms, or if that is not practicable, then, as soon after as convenient, and when an engagement is once made, she should consider herself bound to keep it, and not be induced to break her word in order to please a patient or to secure a more advantageous position.

In making obstetrical engagements it is urged on the graduates to be most particular as to date of engagement and terms, so that there be no misunderstanding later.

If any graduate of the school in charge of a case has proved unsatisfactory, the employer is requested to report the fact to the Superintendent.

The regulations for employers are the same as those generally used in registries for nurses :

1. Travelling expenses and washing are to be paid by the employers of the nurses, unless some different arrangement has been made between them.

2. A meal should be provided for a nurse when she is required to be awake all night.

3. When it is necessary for a nurse to care for a very sick person for several nights in succession, she should be allowed not less than six hours' sleep during the days.

4. When taking entire charge of a nervous patient night and day, though a nurse may not lose her sleep, it is better for both patient and nurse that she have some time for exercise in the open air apart from the patient.

It is not expedient to multiply rules, as they are not all of general application, and many details must be regulated by the circumstances of the case. We only ask for the nurses the consideration and kindness due to those who contribute so much to the comfort and well-being of members of the family.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE I.

The Society shall be known by its incorporated name of "THE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES." (Incorporated February 5, 1874).

ARTICLE II.

The object of the Society, as defined by its charter, is "the selection, education, training, and providing of suitable persons as nurses for the sick."

ARTICLE III.

The Society shall report monthly and annually in writing to the "New York County Visiting Committee for Bellevue and Other Public Institutions," a branch of the State Charities Aid Association.

ARTICLE IV.

The Society shall consist of Honorary Members, Benefactors, Patrons, Members, and Associate Members.

ARTICLE V.

The Officers of the Society shall be a President, Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer. They shall be elected annually by a two-thirds vote, by ballot, of the Board of Managers, from among its Members. In case of the death or resignation of an Officer, a successor for the remainder of the year may be elected by a two-thirds vote, by ballot, of the Board of Managers, at any Regular or Special Meeting of the Board, two weeks' notice having been given in writing to the members by the President or Secretary.

ARTICLE VI.

The President shall preside at all Meetings of the Board of Managers, and shall call Special Meetings at discretion, or upon the written request of three Members. The President shall name the Members of Standing and Special Committees, and shall appoint, annually, an Auditing Committee of two gentlemen, Members of the Society, but not Members of the Board of Managers, to examine and report upon the accounts of the Treasurer.

ARTICLE VII.

The Vice-President shall, in the absence of the President, perform the duties of the President.

ARTICLE VIII.

The Secretary shall perform the duties usually appertaining to this office.

ARTICLE IX.

The Treasurer shall receive, invest, and take charge of the funds of the Society, and shall make written Monthly Reports to the Board of Managers, of the condition of the Treasury, and a written Annual Report to the President, at the Annual Meeting of the Board of Managers.

ARTICLE X.

There shall be a Board of Managers, consisting of not less than eleven Members. Five Members of this Board shall be Members of the New York County Visiting Committee for Bellevue and Other Public Institutions. The Board may make its own By-Laws and fill vacancies in its own body. The Board may, by a two-thirds vote, remove any member for cause. It shall prepare the Annual Report, and submit it to the Society for approval at the Annual Meeting. It shall hold its Annual Meeting just previous to that of the Society. No Member of the Board of Managers shall receive a salary or any compensation for services rendered. Five Members of the Board shall constitute a quorum at any Meeting.

The absence of any Member of the Board of Managers from Meetings of Committees of which he or she may be a Member, for a consecutive period of three months, without giving notice to the Secretary, may be considered by the President as equivalent to a resignation.

ARTICLE XI.

The Board of Managers shall control the management of the school, shall have power to appoint and remove the Superintendent of the school, and shall determine the salaries of all nurses and subordinates.

ARTICLE XII.

There shall be a Committee upon Nominations, composed of the President and three Managers. The names of persons eligible for managers of this Institution shall be presented to this Committee, and in the event of vacancy in the Board, this Committee shall report and recommend the party or parties eligible for election. After such nominations by the Committee, one month shall elapse, when the election shall take place by ballot at any Meeting at which two-thirds of the Managers are present.

ARTICLE XIII.

The Finance Committee shall, with the Treasurer, manage the finances of the Society.

ARTICLE XIV.

Honorary Members shall be chosen only for important service and valuable aid rendered to the school. They shall be exempted from the payment of all dues. They shall be nominated by the Board of Managers, and elected by the Society at its Annual Meeting.

ARTICLE XV.

Benefactors.—Any person who shall give One Thousand Dollars at one time to this Society shall be entitled to all the privileges of membership, without the payment of annual dues. A Benefactor shall have the right to nominate two pupils, who, upon conforming to the rules for admission, shall have preference over all other applicants to the first two vacancies, and be received and trained in the school.

ARTICLE XVI.

Patrons.—Any person who shall give Five Hundred Dollars at one time to this Society shall be entitled to all the privileges of membership, without the payment of annual dues. A Patron shall have the right to nominate one pupil, who, upon conforming to the rules for admission, shall have a preference to the first vacancy, and be received and trained in the School.

ARTICLE XVII.

Members and Associate Members must be nominated in writing by a Member or Associate Member of the Society ; the name of the Proposed Member and the Proposer being sent to the Secretary, to be submitted for approval to the Board of Managers. If elected, and upon payment of annual dues, he or she shall become a Member or Associate Member of the Society. The annual dues of a Member shall be ten dollars, of an Associate Member five dollars, payable immediately after election, and subsequently in January of each year. Members shall be entitled to two votes at all Regular and Special Meetings of the Society, and the Associate Members to one vote.

ARTICLE XVIII.

Members and Associate Members may at any time commute all annual dues for life by the payment of One Hundred Dollars, and Fifty Dollars, respectively.

ARTICLE XIX.

The Annual Meeting of the Society shall be held on the second Wednesday of January. The fiscal year of the Society shall be the calendar year.

ARTICLE XX.

The By-Laws of the Sub-Committee must be in accordance with and subordinate to the By-Laws of the Board of Managers.

The By-Laws of the Board of Managers must be in accordance with and subordinate to these By-Laws of the Society. These By-Laws can be amended by a two-thirds vote of Members of the Society, or by a majority of the Board of Managers, at any Regular or Special Meeting, the text of the proposed amendment having been sent to each member a fortnight previously by the Secretary.
